

Happy Medium Magazine

Binghamton University's student-run, nonpartisan, political science magazine.

Happy Medium is looking for writers and copy editors! No prior experience in writing for a publication is necessary, and we accept all majors. We will work with our writers to produce high-quality pieces of political journalism. All positions are on a volunteer-basis.

There are no quotas or deadlines for our writers, so everyone can work at their own pace and can schedule their writing around fluctuations in course workloads.

Our mission is to create a space for all Binghamton University students to respectfully and productively discuss the politics of our nation and world. If you are interested in joining our writing team or copy editing team, please scan one of the QR codes below. To learn more about our magazine, visit our website at happymediummag.com

Writing Team
Application

Copy Editing Team
Application

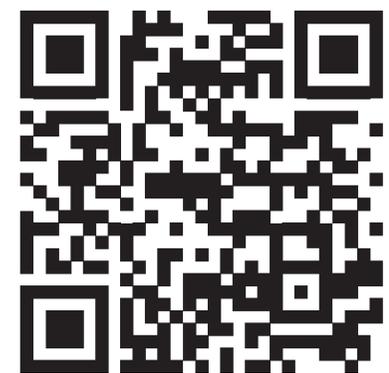

binghappymedium

happymediummag

Happy Medium

Political science, not political science-fiction.